the World Peace Advocate

Whenever we talk or discuss about human rights we do talk of social justice. Though social justice has broad perspective depending on different situations and conditions, in simple language this is about the international rights and equality of man. When there is division amongst people in various perspectives, individuals and society. This is measured by the explicit and tacit terms for the distribution of wealth, opportunities for personal activity, and social privileges.

It often referred to the process of ensuring that individuals fulfill their societal roles and receive what they are due from the society. It assigns rights and duties in their institutions of society, which enables to receive the basic benefits and burdens of co-operation. The relevant institutions often include taxation, social insurance, public health. Public school, public services, labour law and regulation of markets, enable fair distribution of wealth, and equal opportunity.

It is an underlying principle for peaceful and prosperous coexistence within and among nations. We advance social justice when remove barriers that people face because of gender, age, ethnicity, religion, culture or disability. For the United Nations, the pursuit of social justice for all is at the core of global mission to promote development and human dignity. The adoption by the International Labour Organization of the Declaration on Social Justice or a fair Globalization is just one recent example of the UN system's commitment to social justice. The Declaration focuses on guaranteeing fair outcomes for all through employment, social protection, social dialogue, and fundamental principles and rights at work..... Economies in transition.

Different actors and players or stake holders have different roles to play for ensuring social justice for all. Social justice is a must so that each and every individual irrespective of their backgrounds may exercise their rights and contribute towards positive changes in the society. Different government mainly developing nations must focus more on social justice as there is a difference among citizens in developing countries. Together all of us can make a difference and let us commit ourselves that we shall ensure social justice for the progress of humanity and to achieve sustainable development for ourselves.

FROM THE DESK OF THE WORLD PRESIDENT

In the year 2001, which was declared by the United Nations as the International year of peace and Non-violence, FUCN began the Justice for Peace Appointment/Awards which is the highest calling of recognition to those individuals whose lives exemplify the ideas of living for the sake of others and who dedicate themselves to the promotion of universal moral values, strong family life, interreligious cooperation, international harmony and establishment of a culture of peace.

In addition to acknowledge these special qualities, the appointments encourage these special individuals to be role models in community services and in peace making. Our trustees recognize that you exemplify these qualities.

By this appointment you have been made a peace advocate of the United Nation with the responsibility of conflicts resolutions in line with the best international practices and other activities that encourage peaceful and positive living.

You will join a very selected group of individuals as champions of Human dignity for world peace.

This honour provides opportunities for interactions and networking among other distinguished and respected Members and Peace Advocates which include top Governments officials, clerics, traditional rulers, educationists, businessmen and women, community leaders, politicians, women and youth leaders and civil society all over the universe.

By the virtue of this status, you have the privilege of hosting the United Nations and Nigerian Flags in your permanent residence and office, peace Justice and Human are protected by the laws of the public international law and the convention of Wien of 18th April 1961. The seat of the international presidency in the international parliament of states for safety and peace, as well as all the diplomatic seats operating in the different Nations, are considered neutral territories after settled that the neutrality is a term belonging to the public international law that establishes the impartiality and the complete abstention of partisan initiatives of a state, while others are at war. Moreover it's a very widespread opinion that international unions.

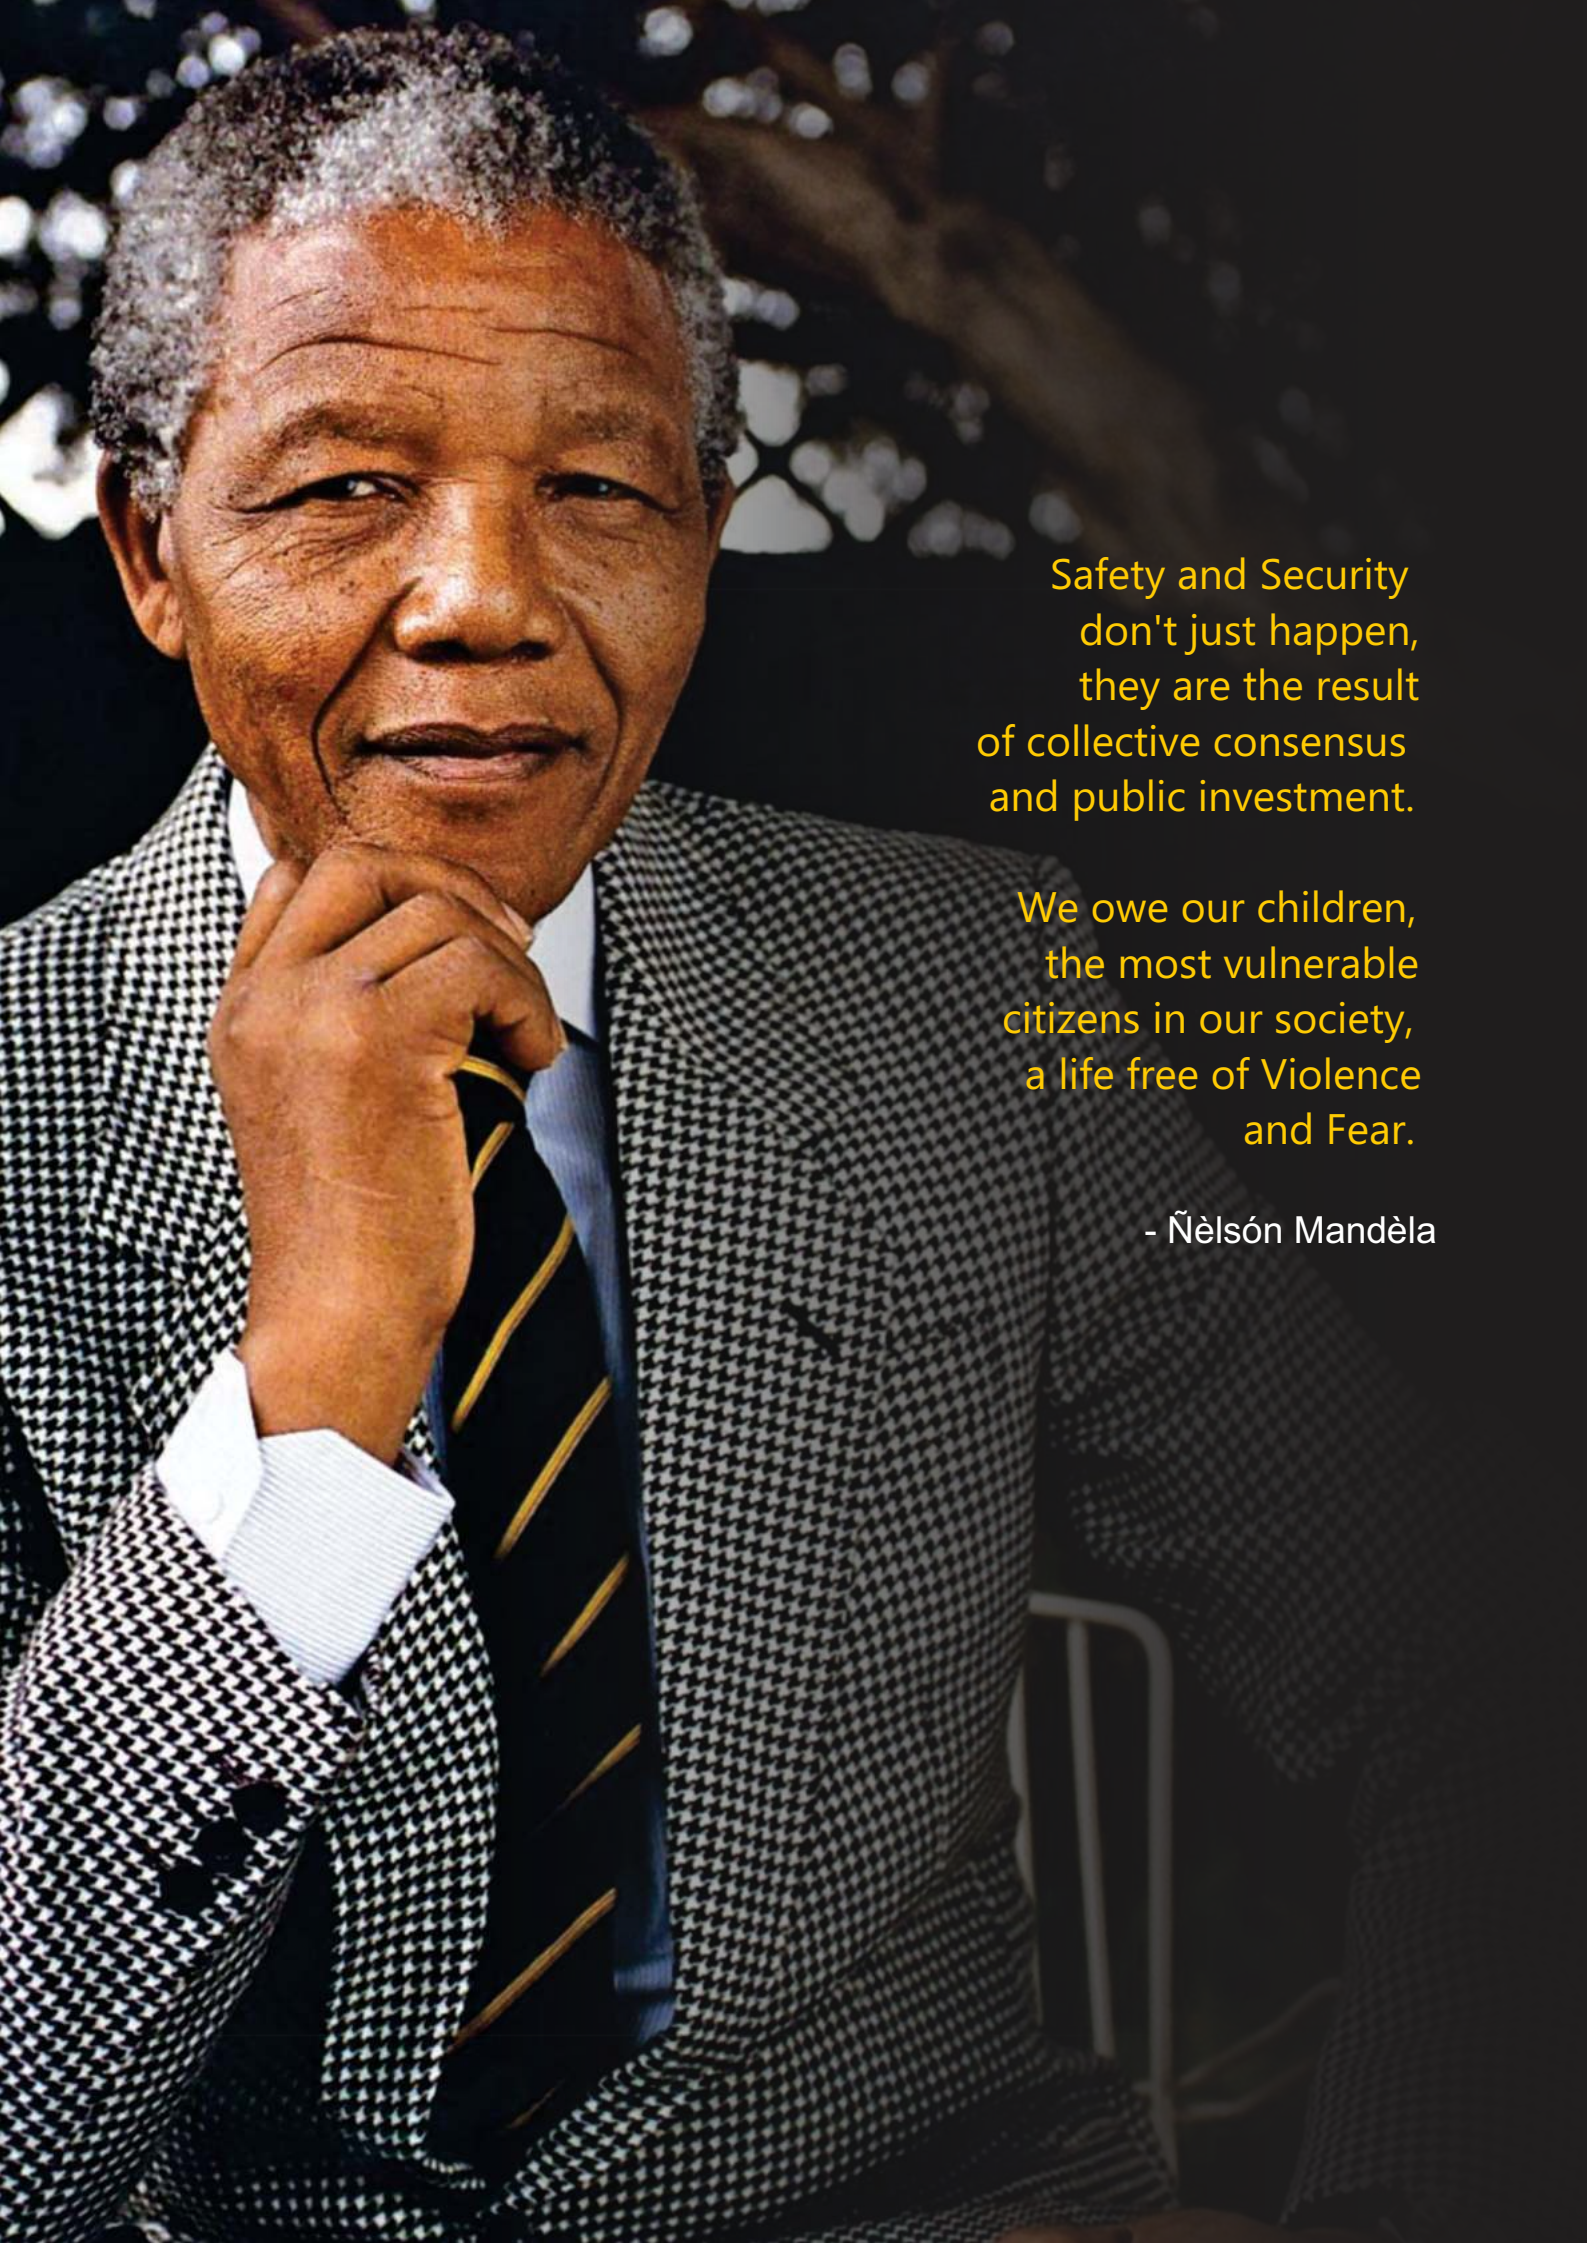

The concrete activities of such unions turn externally into the activities of the state's members of the union, to which therefore those are charged it is the same of what happens for the hypothesis of co-dominion. The states co-owners of the government power on determined territories exercise it setting up, through agreement, an international administration. The recognition has a constitutive nature of the international legal status of the state before the recognition, so the state is not subject of international law. The recognition has declarative nature of the international legal statuses. It agrees that an inter-government organization of states has plene et jure the international legal status, so it happens for the United Nations and other similar organisms.

Pro veritate, for the subjects of the executives competence of the lord president of the International Parliament for Safety and Peace, we can surely affirm that the appointment of ambassadors, ministers and of any other office, taking shape of the attribution of the qualification of the "external authority" according to the international law, are of exclusive competence of the lord president, who is completely equivalent to a head of States their own ambassadors, ministers and charges d' affaires. So, he enjoys all privileges, the immunities and the honours reserved to the heads of states; most in general you can refer back to the well-known conventions of Vienna of 1961 and 1963.

The international parliament has two branches: the High Chamber of senators and the deputies Assembly has 800 deputies. Both senators and parliamentary deputies and councilors are elected every five years by the supreme council or presidents and they can be confirmed again in the future elections.

According to the international Law regulations, the members of the international parliament enjoy the immunity inside the states that have normal diplomatic relations, for other Nations, where it does not exist such protocol relations, the members can enjoy only the functional immunity: as a matter of fact the cannot be prosecuted or their political and diplomatic activity in defense of peace, security, freedom and justice.

Safety and Security
don't just happen,
they are the result of collective consensus and public investment.

We owe our children,
the most vulnerable
citizens in our society,
a life free of Violence and Fear.

the Profile of His Excellency, His Eminence, Cardinal, Professor Esapa Sona Joseph Dominion. JP. IHRD

The World International President for IPSPJ

His Eminence Cardinal (Prof) Joseph Dominion was born on the 17th September, 1972 into the family of late Mr. Esapa Martin Mboe and late Deac. Helen Esapa of Ikiliwindi Kumba Meme Division of South west Cameroon central Africa. Just as the philosophical expression has made known that the level of one's educational background and versatile experience in one's determines his level of interaction, same is applicable to Prof. Cardinal Joseph Dominion.

Cardinal (Prof) Joseph Dominion started and attended his primary education at the Cameroon Baptist Convention (CBS), where he obtained his First School Leaving certificate (FSLC) in 1978. Consequently, Prof Joseph attended the Bishop Rogan College at Soppo Buea, South West Cameroon, from where he acquired his General Certificate of Education (GCE/SC) IN 1989.

Cardinal Prof Joseph realized then the significance of biblical injunction in the first book of Timothy Chapter 4:13 "Giving attendance to reading" and 2 Timothy 2 vs 10 " Study to show thyself approved unto God as a workman who need not be ashamed but rightly dividing word of truth". He quickly enrolled into the Missionary advanced College Seminary (MACOTIS NIGERIA) within his first two years, through hard work and research, he succeeded and obtained his ministerial certificate in Theology of Mission (MCTM) and Diploma in Theology (DIP.
